

Major Dennis Jackson, II Achieves the Rank of Assistant Chief of Police City of Miami Police Department

The City of Miami Police Department released a statement announcing the promotion of NOBLE member Major Dennis M. Jackson II to the rank of Assistant Chief of Police City of Miami Police Department. Below is an abstract of the official statement:

Dennis M. Jackson II was promoted to the rank of Assistant Chief of Police of the City of Miami Police Department on September 30, 2016. He is overseeing the largest section of the Department, the Field Operations Division, which is responsible for the day to day delivery of a wide range of police services within the City of Miami. The Field Operations Division is also responsible for the COMPSTAT Detail, which coordinates monthly meetings, Bike Detail, Detention Officer Detail, Crisis Intervention Detail, The Public Service Aide Detail, and the Field Training Officer Program.

Assistant Chief Jackson was the former Major, in command of the Community Relations/Public Information Section where he oversaw the Public Information Office, Do The Right Thing Program and the Community Relations Unit. While in command of this section, Assistant Chief Jackson was President of the largest Police Athletic League (P.A.L.) in South Florida, which served thousands of children.

The city has expressed "confidence in Assistant Chief Jackson's appointment and his ability to continue to make Miami a safe and enjoyable place."

Motorola Supports Law Enforcement

Recently, Motorola released a social media campaign highlighting the efforts of law enforcement officers and the role they play in times of crisis. The YouTube videos, entitled The "1,000 Year Flood" Rescue and Duty Runs Deep, focus on natural disasters and terror attacks.

The "1,000 Year Flood" Rescue--In October 2015, first responders and good samaritans across South Carolina answered the call of duty. Among a sea of heroes, one trooper's efforts stood out as he helped to evacuate three people, including a 2-year-old, trapped by dangerous waters.

Duty Runs Deep--In times of danger, when many instinctively flee, what makes first responders answer the call and run toward the threat? What makes them willing to put themselves in harm's way in order to save lives? We may call it bravery or courage. First responders know it simply as duty.
